Theme: The concept of sustainable plant engineering requires a change of mindset to bring about full integration of the needs for economic and social development with that to conserve the environment. It also requires the engineering and facilities management professionals to work hand in hand in order to reduce the generation of pollution at the source and minimize the risk to human health and the environment.

All of us need to start working in partnership to achieve sustainable plant engineering to find ways to optimize energy consumption for our plants and machineries while reducing overall pollution and waste. We also need to meet our own needs and aspiration without doing damage to the prospects of future generations and reduce the environmental burden we put on our neighbours and helping to preserve common resources.

The objectives of the Symposium are to enlighten engineering and facilities management professional's awareness of green plant engineering management through continuous improvement, innovation and application of new technology to reduce green house gas to contribute environmental protection and climate change.

Moreover, the development of new technologies, the use of advanced materials and construction solutions leading to quality improvement in the environmental and cultural sagacity represents an enormous potential for sustainable society development.

SOE Symposium 2010 will bring together a wide range of stake holders to focus on the issue of sustainable plant engineering for achieving green and environmental friendliness facilities in Asia. This symposium will also bring together industry experts to share their knowledge and insights on high performance, innovation and low impact approaches to maintaining, developing and retrofitting the building environment for sustainability.

Who Should Attend: Attendees, expected to be those working at the management levels of organizations in public and the private sectors, will include government officials, consultants, engineers, contractors, facility/property managers, technical managers and the like who are responsible for design, construction, testing and commissioning, operation, maintenance and management of plants and built facilities.
